

308- 313

MAXIMIAN

April 308

Maximian tried to usurp his son's position at Rome, and when that attempt failed he fled to refuge with his new son-in-law Constantine now in Gaul.

308-324

honorius was emperor

310 - 313

Maximilien Daia was emperor

308 AD

ST. MARCELLUS I, POPE

308-309 reign

~~S~~ MARCELLUS ^I was 30TH Pontiff
He succeeded MARCELLINUS.

Maximianus Doza adopted the title of Augustus; so now there were 2 Augusti.

Maxentius quarreled with his father. Maximian went to Gaul to see Constantine's aid, while the latter fought Germanicus on the Rhine. Maximian tried to replace him as commander of the Gallic armies; Constantine marched across Gaul, besieged the usurper in Marseilles, captured him, and granted him the courtesy of suicide

30 8

Licinius became emperor.

Nov 308

Faced with multiplication of emperors, Galerius and Maximian coaxed Diocletian briefly out of retirement in Nov 308 for an imperial conference at Carnuntum, near Vienna.

The result was the establishment of a new official tetrarchy. LICINIUS, another Illyrian Army officer & friend of Galerius was appointed Augustus in the west in place of SEVERUS II Constantine was confirmed in position of CAESAR. And Maximian was forced to abdicate again. This left Maximian in control of Italy & Africa, and one of Licinius's primary tasks was to re-establish central control over these regions. Based at SIRMION, Licinius made major incursions in the extreme north east during the course of 309

308 (nov.)

Licinius become emperor.

11 NOV 308

Accession of Licinius

His wife was Constantia

His children: son: Valerius Licinian

LICINIANUS LICINIUS

Salernus relinquishes invasion of the West, but makes Licinius Caesar on the Danube and concedes title of Augustus to Maximian.
Maximian is deposed but continues intrigues.

308

Conference of CARNUNTUM: Lecinius made Augustus.